scientific laws and principles of the physical world. As expected this curriculum will provide an opportunity to the students to see physics as a contribution to life in modern society.

The course demands emphasis on conceptual understanding of the physical phenomena. This will involve the proper utilization of suitable mathematical models and equations. The applications of the physics together with the social and environmental aspects need to be emphasized whenever possible. The students are expected to actively participate in the learning process through experimentation supplemented by demonstration, discussions and problem solving.

The practical component of this course is designed to supplement learning through the application of the learned theory. The students will handle simple apparatus to do simple measurements, verify physical laws and apply their knowledge of physics to real life example.

2. Objectives

2.1 General objectives

The general objectives of this course are:

- a. to provide students with sufficient understanding and knowledge of the fundamental principles of physics and their applications;
- b. to develop the skills of experimenting, observing, interpreting data evaluating evidence and formulating generalizations and models; and
- c. to explain the social, economic, environmental and other implications of physics and appreciate the advancement of physics and its applications as essential for the growth of
